[EXCLUSIVE] Beyond the Marquee: The Web-Series (Episode 17): TRON UPRISING's Mobile Theater

May 27th, 2012 Beyond the Marquee

Beyond the Marquee was on hand for the unveiling of Disney XD's "TRON: Uprising" Theatre on Wheels at Hollywood & Highland on Saturday May 26th 2012. In public spaces throughout the "real" grid of Southern California, viewers will have the opportunity to see a prelude episode of the new animated series "TRON: Uprising" in a state of the art, high definition theatre on wheels. BTM's own Steve Czarnecki files this Exclusive interview with Executive Producer and Series Director Charlie Bean and TRON himself; the legendary Bruce Boxleitner at the event. Click ahead to get a list of locations that this unique mobile theater will be headed to in Southern California in the next couple of weeks.

Disney XD's TRON: Uprising Mobile Theater

The 91 seat theatre provides an immersive viewing experience with digital surround sound and stadium seating. The continuous screenings at each location are made available at no charge. The series premieres Thursday, June 7 on Disney XD.

More information on the "TRON: Uprising" screenings is available on facebook.com/DisneyXD (<http://www.facebook.com/DisneyXD>) or facebook.com/Tron (<http://www.facebook.com/Tron>).

"TRON: Uprising," produced in CG animation with a 2D aesthetic, focuses on an era of the "TRON" storyline that transpires after the 1982 feature film and before the story in Walt Disney Studios' "TRON: Legacy." It follows the heroic journey of Beck, a young program who becomes the unlikely leader of a revolution inside the computer world of The Grid. His mission is to free his home and friends from the reign of the villainous Clu and his henchman, General Tesler. Trained by Tron, the greatest warrior The Grid has ever known, Beck is given the moniker of The Renegade and ignites an uprising.

"TRON: Uprising" stars Elijah Wood as Beck, Bruce Boxleitner as Tron, Mandy Moore as Mara, Emmanuelle Chriqui as Paige, Nate Corddry as Zed, Lance Henriksen as General Tesler, Reginald VelJohnson as Able, Paul Reubens as Pavel and Tricia Helfer as the narrator and omnipresent voice of The Grid.

Produced by Disney Television Animation, the series is executive-produced and directed by Charlie Bean ("Robotboy," "Samurai Jack" and "Powerpuff Girls"). Edward Kitsis and Adam Horowitz (both screenwriters of "TRON: Legacy" / executive producers of ABC's "Lost" and "Once Upon a Time") developed the series for Disney XD and serve as consulting producers with Justin Springer (co-producer of "TRON: Legacy"). The music is composed by Joseph Trapanese ("TRON: Legacy").
